

Teresa Metcalf Beasley named Vice Chair of Downtown Cleveland Alliance Board

Teresa Metcalf Beasley | Friday, March 19, 2021

CLEVELAND - McDonald Hopkins Member and Chair of the firm's Public Law Practice Teresa Metcalf Beasley was appointed by the Downtown Cleveland Alliance (DCA) as Vice Chair of its Board of Directors. Metcalf Beasley will be serving alongside the first Chairwoman of the Board, Karen Paganini, and new additional members Cheryl Wearsch and Matthew Nipper. Beasley has been a member of the DCA Board of Directors since 2017.

"I am honored to serve in an expanded role on the Board for the Downtown Cleveland Alliance," said Beasley. "This organization has already done so much good for the city of Cleveland, and I look forward to continuing the work of promoting and encouraging people and businesses to explore our dynamic downtown community."

The Downtown Cleveland Alliance is a not-for-profit organization that for the past 15 years has been committed to making Downtown Cleveland a compelling place to live, work and play. DCA works together with the local government, neighborhood-based partners, property owners, business leaders, entrepreneurs, young professionals, foundations, and other civic leaders who share their mission and understand the value of a dynamic downtown.

"Downtown Cleveland Alliance's Board of Directors features some of our city's brightest leaders, all committed to making Downtown Cleveland the best place to live, work, play and visit," says Joe Marinucci, Downtown Cleveland Alliance President & CEO. "The additions to our Board and the election of Karen
